on "The Hindu" newspaper website the following article titled "Maamla To Seek Official Status" has been published, providing details of one such notable party's call for recognition, and the sources they plan to approach to obtain the status. By Aidan Davies, The Express Tribune, January 23, 2013, 1:31 AM The Jamaat-e-Islami (JI), the largest Islamic political party in Pakistan, has called for the recognition of Kashmiri autonomy.

The party, which was once involved in militancy in J&K, now says it is not against autonomy for the Kashmiri people. It has also expressed solidarity with the BJP-led government in New Delhi after the killing of Hizbul Mujahideen terror accused Yasin Malik in an encounter with security forces. JI leaders say the BJP government is trying to show it is soft on militants. But the organisation is not coming down on the separatist agenda of the United Jihad Council which it once supported. In its statement JI has said: "Jamaat-e-Islami wishes to register its voice of support to the Indian government to take all steps to provide safety and security to the people of Jammu and Kashmir and to eliminate the terrorism from the state." By Huwaida Jalal, Herald India, January 23, 2013, 9:44 AM On January 21, 2013, the Jaish-e-Muhammad (JeM) of Masood Azhar, the chief of the terrorist outfit Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) announced on social networking sites that the group would now be officially aligned with the al-Qaeda in the Islamic Maghreb (AQIM) and the Islamic State of Iraq and al-Sham (ISIS), By Shuaib Iqbal, THE HINDU, January 23, 2013, 8:55 AM If Jammu and Kashmir becomes an independent country, then Pakistan's army will stop attacking us, says Azam Din. Srinagar: One thing common to the separatists and the central government is that the former think that only a war between India and Pakistan can secure them autonomy, while the latter is convinced that only a dialogue can take their demands forward. "The perception here in India is that we don't need to talk to Pakistan because they will never allow the people of Kashmir to have
