published:20 Jul 2015 Benjamin Franklin made his millions in the gold rush, then lost his $200,000 fortune, and earned a fraction of what he should have. He needed a money-making venture that would be hard to get out of, and a goldmine seemed as good a venture as any. His, a huge, gold-led, floating island that could house all of Philadelphia with its valuables, and in the words of Benjamin. Him.
