Manufacturer Body Parts for Mercedes Benz Sprinter, BMW, Land Rover, and Volkswagen Land Rover used Volkswagen, BMW, and Mercedes Benz motors to make their classic cars: specifically, the Land Rover Series III, and the Mercedes Benz Sprinter. Here, we have 4K images of these body panels, so that you can either purchase them in bulk, or as individual parts. For more information on getting these panels, contact my. Car Parts Warehouse One of the things that Mercedes Benz fans love about their luxury-oriented sports cars is that they are made of sturdy, high-quality materials. As an example, the 2007 Mercedes Benz C-class has a plastic bumper, while a few years later the 2011 Mercedes Benz S-class has a steel bumper. So it is obvious that the S-class is much more durable, and we have pictures to prove that. Let's have a look. Mercedes Benz Sprinter, BMW, Land Rover, and Volkswagen Manufacturer Body Parts The MZR 88/90 series are the Mercedes Benz Sprinter version of the MZR 55/60 series. The Sprinter models are better equipped for towing and carrying more goods, since the rear axle of the Sprinter is placed above the rear wheels, not below as in the 60. If you have any questions about buying any of our Mercedes Benz parts, please contact us: our.
