It works if user enters the date and time and it will give the current date and time. But if I enter 10/10/2012, then it will give me 10/10/2012 which I want. What should I do? Thanks. long timeInMilliseconds = System.currentTimeMillis(); Date date = new Date(); DateFormat format = new SimpleDateFormat("MM/dd/yyyy HH:mm:ss"); format.setTimeZone(TimeZone.getTimeZone("GMT")); String dateStr = format.format(date); Log.d("Result date:", dateStr); A: What format do you want it to be in (y/M/d)? Edit: As @shane points out: the one problem you have is in the following line: long timeInMilliseconds = System.currentTimeMillis(); What happens if you have an alarm that's set in less than a millisecond ba244e880a
