* Compute the MAC (Message Authentication Code) in a secure manner for encrypted amateur radio text communications * A common use is as a "base key" to replace the 10th or 11th digit of an international call as the 10th or 11th digit of the key * This is handy when you need to use an international radio call that does not require a keying PIN (10 digit passcode) * It will NOT solve the keying problem when you are a VHF or UHF CW operator, it simply replaces the 10th or 11th digit of the key * Does not need a WSPR network connection, just your computer and the internet * If you are in the USA, you can use the VHF/UHF traffic convention also known as the "ACMA Convention" * If you are an Echolink member you can use the Echolink Key: * * Does not solve the keying problem for QSK DXing (through Morse Code) or emergency traffic * The band width (the number of digit key required per second) is: * 7 (VHF CW, digital voice, DXpedition and DXCC) or * 8 (Voice, VHF CW, CW/SSB, PSK31, VOX, and DXCC) * Note the 7 or 8 is based on the time required to send one character of text, NOT the time to process a character of text * Key: * AMS7CC uses the French military format for its MAC digits (plus one space for padding) * * For example, * CMMCDCCMP (Compute MAC using MAC digits) = -Z - 4 + E + 4 + A + D + 3 + D + 5 * MAC would be the character "1" as a digit, "2" as a digit, and so on * You may need to play with the settings for your keyboard to match the AMS7CC settings * Works on Windows and Mac, no installation required * "AMS7CC_PROMPT.txt" includes the MACs that are generated by the software * Links: * AMS7CC - What is this? 1d6a3396d6

A court-appointed special master has rejected the defense's request to dismiss domestic violence charges against a man accused of stabbing his girlfriend on the New York City subway. The defense filed the motion to dismiss the charges as a result of the alleged victim's "inconsistent" statements to investigators. The man and the woman were arrested in January 2017 and charged with second-degree felony assault for allegedly stabbing each other. The woman had a wound on her neck, which left her unable to speak. Prosecutors said the two were engaged in a dispute on a Manhattan-bound F train, and the man allegedly stabbed the woman with a knife. The woman then attempted to flee from the subway, but was detained and held by police. A lawyer for the defendant claims that the woman made inconsistent statements to the police and the grand jury.

Sarah Palin's speech on the House floor Sarah Palin's speech on the House floor John McCain's running mate Sarah Palin kicked off her speech to a joint session of Congress on Tuesday night by addressing her home state's most notorious congressman -- former Rep. Randy "Duke" Cunningham, who is currently serving a prison sentence for bribery and tax evasion. Palin was in Congress from 2002 until 2008. "There's a term in the federal court, it's called 'bribery,'" she said. "It's a common term in state courts as well." She continued, "So when Duke Cunningham's former chief of staff describes himself as the guy who arranged bribes for an ex-congressman, and then the congressman himself describes the affair as a series of 'favor for a favor,' you have to ask yourself, what is this 'favor for a favor' that made it worth Duke Cunningham's, and Mr. Cunningham's, time and effort?" Palin called for lawmakers to change the system of lobbyist influence in Washington. "It's time to eliminate this slush fund of government and put our kids and grandkids' future first," she said. The Alaska governor said that she would not apologize for "principles that have made America a better place" -- she said the country

Wednesday, September 18, 2011 Let's start with the fact that the Indian government over the past week or so has suddenly made an announcement that the richest man in India, Mukesh Ambani, will be given India's highest civilian honor for his contribution to the nation's progress, to which the New York Times declared this morning that 'Ambani's honor could have a major impact on how the country deals with its extreme wealth.' Of course, in India such an announcement is only the tip of the iceberg, because the fact of the matter is that we have the whole world in our hands as to why it is that the UPA government has decided to honor one individual by giving him the country's highest civilian honor when we know full well that the big three and the Indian corporate elite, which are virtually the same thing in India, have no compunction about stashing away the riches that they make from India in tax havens outside India. Now, that is not a right thing to do, but then the UPA government has forgotten that it is only by right of last call that it can be held to account for the bad things that it does. The moment it does anything right, it
