Self-assembled mixed micelles of sodium bis-2-ethyl hexyl sulfosuccinate (AOT)/isooctane/water have been studied by electron spin resonance (ESR) spectroscopy. The spin-labels TEMPONE and CMP were used to detect the water molecules and the alkyl chain regions of the two solvents, respectively. When the ratio of water to AOT in mixed micelles is 0.3, the TEMPONE probe does not exchange with the water layer or the bulk water nor with the AOT head group region. The ESR signal of the TEMPONE probe shows that the self-assembled mixed micelles are in an isotropic fluid state. When the water to AOT ratio increases to 0.5, the spin label can be observed both in the inner water layer and in the bulk water. The self-assembled mixed micelles are only partially isotropic at all stages of the analysis. the likes of the 18th century, Schindler, and the Renaissance.
