LISBON, Portugal (AP) - Portugal's Podemos party, led by the jailed former mayor of the southeastern city of Porto, has won the first round of municipal elections, officials said on Monday. The small left-wing party, founded by a group that had helped oust far-right leader and local funder Marisa Matias from power in 2015, came first with 31.2% of the vote. "Podemos' victory in the first round of elections in Portugal is a tribute to democracy" that shows broad support for the left, Socialist Prime Minister António Costa said after the party also won the races for the northern city of Porto, Algarve, and the capital Lisbon. Backed by voters weary of political corruption and years of recession, Podemos was only founded in January 2016. The party's leader, Rui Maria Nobre, was a local councilor in Porto for eight years. The party's financial backers include actor Joao Castro, one of the founders of the anti-austerity, anti-corruption party "Together," which won this year's European Parliament elections. Podemos' success comes two years after the left won European Parliament elections and threw Portugal into political crisis. That standoff ended with the appointment of Socialist Prime Minister Costa, who won the support of the former center-left Socialist party and the Communist Party. Portugal's inflation this year is near zero and the economy is expected to grow 2.3% this year, almost twice the average of European Union countries. "After a century of stagnation, the Portuguese economy is finally turning," Jose Luís Carvalho, an economics professor at Lisbon University, told The Associated Press. "The Portuguese economy is at its best since World War II." Prime Minister Costa has said he won't step down until the new European Commission presidency is elected in July. The next election will be in 2023.

[Hospital record of perinatal deaths in the health center of Saint-Denis, Senegal]. The perinatal mortality remains one of the major causes of infant death. In developing countries, it has increased, due to several factors. The aim of this study was to assess the hospital records of perinatal deaths in the health center of Saint-Denis and to establish the causes of these deaths. A prospective study was conducted from January 1 to December 31, 2007, on all the deaths in the maternity ward of the "Centre Départemental d'Aide Médicale à Domicile" of Saint-Denis. The inclusion criteria were the deaths of women during pregnancy (fetal and/or maternal deaths) and the pregnancy at the age over 15 years. Each hospital record was analyzed to determine the causes of perinatal deaths. From 1 f30f4ceada
