2: Launch and confirm. Click "Run" if Windows asks "Do you want to run this... application as an administrator?" Click Yes. 3. Download the driver file. Enter the line "%systemroot%\system32\drivers\xev.dll" in the "File path" field, click "Submit". 4. Click the "Check online" button. 5. When the driver is loaded, click the "Run" button. Note. Windows will display a message that the driver has not been tested, but in most cases, the computer will respond normally when you install the driver.
