The Dutchman, 57, admitted administering a blow to former Barcelona player Roberto Abrego. He did so in the 72nd minute of the match between Atletico and Sporting Gijon in the Spanish second division in 2013. A court in Spain heard that Gullit was defending himself against Abrego's "sickening" tackle on him. Gullit was competing in a charity match at San Pedro de Alcantara in Andalucia, southern Spain, when Abrego ran into him. Abrego was fined only €1,700 (£1,515). Gullit, who spent 16 years at Barcelona and won three Serie A titles there, was not arrested. The Court of First Instance in Seville heard that he was defending himself "in justifiable self-defence" in response to a "sickening and brutal" tackle. The prosecution said Abrego was the one who struck first and was part of a "group of people who assaulted [Gullit] in a concerted and collective fashion". image copyright EPA image caption Gullit spent 16 years at Barcelona Prosecutors said Abrego was the perpetrator of a "sickening and brutal" tackle on the player, in violation of the Spanish Football Federation's code of ethics. Gullit's lawyer said the former Netherlands and Chelsea midfielder "was assaulted by a gang" of up to a dozen people. It is the second court case of its kind for Gullit. He was given a six-month suspended sentence in a separate case in 2014, after he was accused of "administrating a blow to a player" in a game in Seville. Gullit played for Belgium, Holland, France, Italy, Spain and England in his career. He also spent three seasons with Barcelona and won
