Platillos volantes (2003) A film based on real events in 1972 northeast of Spain) that occur. They fall in love and decide to get married. But their wedding was not, it is postponed because of the war. They would then have to leave for the US for financial reasons and then return a year later to remarry. And here all the most interesting begins. The film covers the entire history of that period. There are many details and conversations in it, but they do not overload the picture, but rather give it volume, allow the viewer to understand that in the film this is not just a beautiful picture and not just a love story.
