Dr.Web has been around for a while now and has also been a pioneer for its approach to detecting different types of threats. It started as a computer security software to help protect your home and office network. It was not so long after that when the software's popularity spread to the realm of business, and with that the amount of threats it was able to detect increased significantly. There are four primary modes that you can work with: protection, protection with fixes, protection with updates, and monitoring. All of these are very useful and are implemented in a clear and intuitive manner. It only takes a minute to get to know the tools and their uses. Features File scanning A large number of file types are available for scanning, including executables, archives, documents, and images. You can even scan specific files or subfolders by defining their filenames. Multiple languages In addition to the English language, there are also options for Chinese, Croatian, Czech, Greek, Hungarian, Italian, Japanese, Polish, Portuguese, Romanian, Russian, and Slovak. Updated detection and database files If you choose to use the "protection with updates" feature, Dr.Web will keep up with the latest threats and updates. Of course, you can always download the latest database and virus files directly from the software's official website. Monitoring Even more powerful than the protection and detection features, the monitoring features let you configure the behavior of the engine by allowing you to set up policy. Email scanner Dr.Web lets you scan and quarantine suspicious emails. It alerts you if it finds any and creates an archive for future reference. System Guard It offers real-time protection against spyware programs and programs that aim to install software without your permission. You can also specify custom settings, as well as settings that exclude certain elements and installations. Anit-virus functions This includes the ability to detect, remove, and prevent the installation of viruses and spyware, as well as the prevention of redirects and drive lockouts. You can also optimize the behavior of the malware engine. It also has the ability to "learn" and "fix" the threat behavior. Additional tools The software includes some useful tools such as a registry cleaner, Winlogon errors, and the ability to correct Registry errors, and a system optimizer that may improve the system by cleaning junk files and disabling system processes. Dr.Web Anti-virus System Requirements: Processor: 500MHz

Friday, August 3, 2013 MusicMatch is a musical suggestions software with a well balanced interface. It offers you different options to search, compare, create playlists and generate your favorite music tracks. The program allows you to manage your entire collection of songs and keep it organized. MusicMatch comes with an intuitive interface that makes it easy for you to choose what you want to listen to. The first thing you need to do is to select a search method depending on your preferences. The default method is the blank search, which combines all of your songs together to the result. You can also select a file type, a play method, or use the complete music collection you have. The program will display the music that has been matched to your query. There are three main sections: your collection, your files, and album collections. The first one contains your music files, while the two others will provide you with the albums that can be used to create your new playlists. MusicMatch offers you the option to write a tag for each of your songs. Thus, you can easily create lists of your favorite music. You can also view the details of your file, the different genres it contains, and music information about it such as the name of the writer, the publishing date, and the publisher. When you search by an artist, you can view more details about each artist in the details page. You can also select a song to listen to it right away. MusicMatch comes with the standard features of a music player. It supports sleep, mute and volume control,
