What's New in the Muslim Prayer Times?

Summary: Am I a member of some secret Muslim group? Please, don't tell me. All I need to know is how to pray. And by looking at this application, there's no way you'd have any idea. Muslim Prayer Times makes it easy to know what time to pray—and which direction to face. Almost more than anything else, Muslims (who have to) pray five times a day are really, really time-sensitive. This application not only lets you easily see what time to pray, but also what direction to face. It even lets you change which day is the right direction for a specific prayer. With that in mind, you can set your phone, tablet, or Mac to remind you when it's the right time to pray, and where you are facing. Once you've set the time and where, it'll even let you know when it's time to go do so. Download it, and find yourself fighting the urge to do your prayers. Note: This application is NOT designed to teach you what time to pray. Its purpose is to help users set up their time and location to pray, as quickly and painlessly as possible, so that they don't have to sit in front of their phones trying to remember or be bothered by a constant alarm. Use it if you are having a hard time remembering the times and don't want to use your phone to remind you every time you see it, or for other reasons. Some of the features that are included are: Display Times The time and direction of the prayer Alarm Unlocks the black screen to lock in the current direction and time of the prayer. Help Click the "Help" menu button on the Notification Dock Requirements: Version: 2.5.1.2 Platform: iPad (iOS 6.1 or later), iPhone (iOS 7 or later), iPod (iOS 8.0 or later) The present invention relates to an apparatus for testing the integrity of a nuclear reactor and for measuring the amount of decay heat produced by the nuclear reactor.
