First Love (Johnny Mathis song) "First Love" is a 1958 popular ballad written by Jack Keller and Chris Smith. It was released by the American pop singer Johnny Mathis as the title song of his 1958 album. The song's music and lyrics are based on Noel Coward's play "Present Laughter". The song was also featured in the 1958 movie Room at the Top. Background The music of "First Love" is based on a chord sequence from "My Fair Lady" (or "Can't Help Falling in Love with You") by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II. It is also similar in structure to Mathis' 1957 "I Wish I Were in Love Again", a jazz arrangement of the theme for the 1960 film Darby O'Gill and the Little People. "First Love" was described by the Nashville Tennessean as "a bravura production". The song was number 1 on the Billboard charts for two weeks (8/6 – 12/2/1958). It was covered by Mel Tormé on his 1958 album The Mel Tormé Way. Andy Williams also recorded the song in 1958. The song was subsequently covered by other musicians, including Perry Como on the 1959 album Love Songs of Perry Como, in which the song was featured as the show's theme song and first single. Como's rendition was released as a single and spent two weeks at number 1 in late February and early March 1959. In popular culture The song was featured in the movie Room at the Top (1958), which starred Danny Kaye and Shirley MacLaine. The song was featured in the pilot episode of Full House. It was also used in the final episode of NBC's 2011-2012 television series Up All Night.

Related Springfield City Council approval on Nov. 7 of a plan to raise water rates up to 30 percent is a bad idea that could only make the city more expensive and difficult to do business in. The city's water utility, Springfield Water Works, claims an average water rate of $22.42 per month for residential customers. That works out to $577 per year. During the recession, when gas prices were sky high and money was tight, water rates were increased 50 percent. With the city experiencing a building boom, the utility is considering another water rate increase. It would increase rates
