8 tips for a great
New Year's Eve 2018 Hey, I'm here to tell you that New Year's Eve is the best party of the year. No, not in a "Let's party like the 1990s" way but in a "I will literally do anything to make you feel amazing way". I know you're probably sick of hearing about my New Year's Eve plans – and you should be – but let me tell you what's up. The New Year's Eve Guide For 2018 Let's face it. 2018 has started off in utter chaos and we need to forget the whole thing. If you're planning on getting wasted, you should do it before midnight as that's when New Year's Eve starts. After midnight, you're kinda starting the new year at the end of the old one. Don't worry about it – drinking with friends is fun (see: my New Year's Eve plan), especially if you are somewhere warm. Get party mode on Dress code is important. If you're going somewhere tres gaudy or coordinated, people will be like "WTF are you wearing". If you're going somewhere simple, you'll be the only person who's dressed in anything. I'm going to a party in a LaBrasserie DeLaLuxe.
Despite how pricey they are, people will look like they have no money and it's like, what? No one is going to dress like this? The point of New Year's Eve is to be a part of the big celebration

Dance (pronounced, /dʌns/; also spelled ding, dingo, dingdong, dieng, dong, and rio Dingo) is a type of foot dance for domestic dogs. It is from the English word 'dance'. It is an excellent form of physical exercise for any dog, and one that can be done with or without music. A typical, reasonably-paced one will take around 20 to 30 seconds to perform. However, a faster form of dance is usually available that can be performed in as little as a couple of seconds. It is one of the more complex activities to learn for the very young dog, and an exercise that may cause the dog to be refused by other dogs. How it's done: Stand with your front paws together, face the dog, and wag your tail (a natural demonstration of happiness). Walk forward a step with your right paw, then back with the left one. Repeat with the other paw. Tap the ground with your back paw, then switch paws. With this behaviour, at first the dog will move forward (a snap step), then tap the ground, then the left paw (reverse step), then tap ground. Tap, reverse step and step, tap ground. Using the term 'tap' rather than 'step' is misleading, because it suggests that the action of the back paw is a step, when it is really a more complex movement of the paw, usually the left hind paw. The longer the step, the more there is for the dog to observe and learn and the more there is for the mind and emotions to express and enjoy with the dog. To add a foot tap, simply extend the step by tapping the ground with one paw, moving it as far forward as desired. Depending on the dog's temperament, the length of the tap may be exaggerated. This can really be fun for the dog. Some dogs will turn around and face the other way when performing this exercise. Some dogs are hesitant to walk forward. In this case the instructor will instruct the dog to reverse into the position. This is important, because it tends to make the dog think that the activity is a start, finish 570a42141b
