Do you need to enter a phone number, email, URL, contact details, text, or any other kind of data into a text file? Format Multiple Phone Numbers In Text Files Software lets you do this easily and quickly. You can convert the text you entered into the desired format using a GUI (Graphical User Interface). You can save your formatted file in a number of popular formats (TXT, DOC, RTF, HTML, XML, and more). Format Multiple Phone Numbers In Text Files Software is a useful software utility that can help you out in this scenario, as it is capable of processing large numbers of phone numbers at once in order to add any necessary symbols, such as dots, hyphens or parentheses. Easy-to-use application that can import data from text files While it is certainly possible to insert phone numbers one by one, it is much easier just to load the text file they are stored in. However, the application only supports TXT documents, and some users may have saved their lists to other formats. Once the data has been imported, you can add any numbers that may not have been included in the list, and then begin setting up the formatting rules. Format all your phone numbers in one quick operation The next step consists of configuring the formatting parameters. The application uses "X" as a wildcard to represent digits, and you can add any other symbols that need to be inserted. Unfortunately, however, while the program does offer a few samples for you to work with, they are very limited in number and cannot be loaded without also inserting the sample phone numbers. It would have been great if the program
