The Twincat Real Time System can be used with every type of automation application and offers the availability of real-time I/O as well as a variety of real-time L2xxx and EL2xxx digital output controllers with the given time constants. The external digital input controllers are available with a time constant of up to. A – 8254x: time constant 100-0.1 ms (response time at 2.5 mA: 1 µs) 4 – 8255x: time constant 200-0.1 ms (response time at 2.5 mA: 0.6 µs) It is possible to integrate all external digital input controllers as well as digital output controllers into the automation system via EtherCAT. Ethernet cable is installed from master unit to the master unit at the network cable port for real time functionality as well as controls. The required cable length depends on the number of components on the network and the desired transfer speed. For example, a maximum of 1500 meters (one end unit to another end unit) can be achieved. The device is supplied with two fixing brackets for various applications. For industrial applications, a system can be made Ethernet through an interface to the industrial PC. The industrial PC is used as a reference clock with a precision of up to 10 seconds. The connection is created by installing Ethernet cables into the industrial PCs. with TwinCAT via EtherCAT (TwinCAT 3.1) 1.
