Here you can download WiseVideoConverterPro23165PortableActivator64bitN.Y.1978) (holding that a request that the prosecutor reveal the contents of the Grand Jury's testimony to an accused has no basis in the federal constitution). [7] The majority also finds support for this holding in Henry v. Day, 699 F.2d 766, 769 (10th Cir.1983) (holding that a defendant is not entitled to examine the notes of the prosecutor who conducted the grand jury investigation because they are not considered to be the record of the proceedings). However, the decision in Henry was based on the failure to comply with Fed.R.Crim.P. 6(e) which allows for inspection of the grand jury material. See Henry, 699 F.2d at 769. "The law is clear that a district court is without jurisdiction to consider an alleged violation of Rule 6(e)." Id. (quoting United States v. Johnson, 562 F.2d 515, 516 (8th Cir.1977)). This rule makes no exception for exculpatory evidence and because the defendant did not seek inspection under it, his claim that failure to disclose exculpatory evidence violated due process is without merit. Therefore, the court's reliance on Henry to hold that the notes of the grand jury are not part of the record of the proceedings is misplaced. A moment of silence for Garçon, Kouassi and Doku,
