USB DLM is a lightweight utility for Windows that provides users with the ability to assign a custom drive letter to a USB storage device. The software identifies available local drives and automatically assigns new connected USB drives to a drive letter that is not used by other drives. It gives you the freedom to allocate any available drive letter to a specific USB drive, regardless of its size, without the need to go through the Windows Control Panel. You can also define that certain letters are not available for the user. It allows you to hide local drives that have already been assigned a letter, or to temporarily rename the drive. USB DLM's intuitive interface enables you to check whether a drive letter has been reserved for a device or not, and assign it to another device if it is already in use. The program supports both connected and unconnected USB devices. The application is very easy to use. Just run it and enjoy the
