This method was tested on the following versions: Adobe Photoshop CS5 and CS6,.Apple released the full list of their MacBook Pro Models with 15-inch and 13-inch screens and according to the list, there will be no more retina display MacBook Pro models. The MacBook Pro Model with retina display was released on May 3, 2011 when Apple introduced the quad-core system architecture in their MacBook Pro line and since then the highest resolution display in the MacBook Pro line was a 13-inch retina display. The MacBook Pro line currently consists of 13-inch and 15-inch models where the 13-inch MacBook Pro has the single largest display and the 15-inch MacBook Pro has the biggest CPU, but they both have the same processor architecture. The 13-inch retina MacBook Pro had a resolution of 2560 by 1440 pixels with a 227 ppi density. The 15-inch MacBook Pro has a resolution of 2880 by 1800 pixels and 224 ppi density. The most recent entry in the MacBook Pro line is the 13-inch MacBook Pro with Retina display. While the display size is the same as the retina model, the resolution is 1536 by 2048 pixels. Since the resolution of all three models have the same pixels, with an identical resolution, it seems that Apple thinks that a bigger display is the benefit of the retina model and not a higher pixel density. If you remember the original iPad, it was also the same resolution as the iPhone, but the iPhone had a higher pixel density. MacBook Pro with retina display by size: 13-inch, 15-inch – 1536
