Career In 1994, Michele

Smith self-released her first album, Tilt. It was then picked up by Jawbone Records and re-released in 1996. After a lengthy career in other pursuits, Smith returned to her songwriting and began playing live. During this time, she collaborated with producer, songwriter, and guitarist Michael Noll. She soon signed with Elektra Records for their new imprint, Pump Records. Pump subsequently re-released her first album, Tilt. The recording and mixing were performed by Noll and Stephen Lipson. Over the next few years, Smith moved around the U.S. playing regular dates. In 2004, she released her
