To analyze the clinical characteristics of 5 cases of polycythemia vera (PV) with thrombotic tendency. The clinical data of 5 cases of PV were analyzed retrospectively. The patients had different thrombotic tendency, including cerebral venous sinus thrombosis (CVST) with thrombocytosis in 4 cases, deep vein thrombosis (DVT) in 3 cases and pulmonary embolism (PE) in one case. All patients received JAK inhibitor treatment with good response. The complications of oral anticoagulant therapy included major bleeding in 3 cases and minor bleeding in 2 cases. Early intervention with JAK inhibitor may be important for the prevention and treatment of the complications of thrombotic tendency in PV."The Himalayan Enterprise Girls and Boys" "The Himalayan Enterprise Girls and Boys" We are a charity registered in England and Wales, number 1097655 and the company registered in Scotland, number SC0396045. Our aim is to help children from disadvantaged backgrounds achieve their potential, providing education, training, employment opportunities and a stable income. We aim to work with young people from the highest and most vulnerable sectors of society. We make a decision to allocate a place to a young person based on their needs and what we believe to be the most beneficial approach to their learning. We have a small but dedicated team who carefully consider each young person's circumstances. We work closely with young people to explain the nature of our work and to discuss any aspects of their personal circumstances which may affect their learning. We have a research department which analyses the available resources and evaluates our performance. We use the information obtained in this analysis
