Consider this: In a world with remote sensors for cars, and TV news broadcasts transmitted over the air, you shouldn't have to pay for a picture of the Earth with a Landsat satellite to verify that a portion of the planet is unaffected.To fix that, environmental impact analysts, meteorologists, and farmers all have a key tool to their analysis. The GE Delmarva Center for Agricultural Science and Technology has a solution: the GrowSat. Users looking to automate tracking of trucks, trains, and UAVs will find CogNet ideal. CogNet can be used to identify trucks, trains and UAVs on a webcam. This is important for law enforcement and general security. They were the third Summer Olympics to be held after the 1896 Summer Olympics and the first World Championships to follow the Olympic rules, replacing the previous unofficial athletics competitions. During the second week of the Games, the competitions for all sports were originally scheduled to take place in the Roosevelt Stadium and the Locarno Ball Park. However, the latter had burned down on New Year's Eve 1903, and the ice rink was in such bad shape that it was decided to hold most of the events at the Stadium. There were also complaints over the amount of time the officials had to make changes in the schedule; with some athletes arriving late and needing accommodation and meals, the Games were cut short. Only the final two days of the competitions at the stadium were held. However, it was eventually decided that the Olympic Games themselves would be held for one week. Venues By the time the Games began, the damage that had been done to St. Louis' Locarno Ball Park by a tornadoband had been fixed. The rebuilt park was much smaller than the original. A total of 92 participants from 17 countries competed in the Olympics. The United States sent only 34 athletes, the most of any nation. Athletes from the United States won the most gold medals with 46, followed by Hungary with 20 and Great Britain with 11. The United States won the most total medals with 107. Hungary and Italy had the largest medal difference, four in favor of
