The problem I have is that on certain forms I would like to prevent the user from being able to change the properties of the control. Is there any way to prevent the user from editing the properties of the control? I would like to be able to do this via code. A: The Widget_PropertyChange event can be overridden on your own control to remove or replace control properties. Add_Event (User_Control_Widget_Property_Change, VScope(UsrControl)). Protected Sub User_Control_Widget_Property_Change(Control As Variant, PropertyName As Variant, Value As Variant) 'Handling of property change events is optional, as it can be a 'call-back from the control, you can add an On_Property_Change 'sub-procedure to handle events when you dont want to. ' 'The VScope(UsrControl) qualifier can be used to 'reference the control that is being modified or changed. ' 'The event handler function looks at the PropertyName 'variable and returns the new value of the property. The event 'handling function has the possibility of removing or 'replacing existing properties by replacing the parameter ``Value' with `Null'. If no property is to be changed, the ``Value' parameter will return `Null' to
