A: I can't believe nobody mentioned It's open source and the fact it's not just for images but more importantly for full screen video means it can convert between formats. I use it all the time for quick screencasts with no gimp or anything. There are some bugs related to this file format, but i know that the developers are actively working on it. You can also contribute to the project if you have the skills. Download I have used it many times and have found it very stable and reliable. EDIT: If you're using Windows 7, the free DDU extension can convert images in very short time. Just install it and then right-click on a picture and choose "DDU". /* * Copyright (C) 2017 The Android Open Source Project * * Licensed under the Apache License, Version 2.0 (the "License"); * you may not use this file except in compliance with the License. * You may obtain a copy of the License at * * * * Unless required by applicable law or agreed to in writing, software * distributed under the License is distributed on an "AS IS" BASIS, * WITHOUT WARRANTIES OR CONDITIONS OF ANY KIND, either express or implied. * See the License for the specific language governing permissions and * limitations under the License. */ package com.android.tools.idea.lint.checks.typography.kotlin; import com.android.tools.lint.detector.api.Category; import com.android.tools.lint.detector.api.Det
