A composite electrode comprising a mixture of a cation-exchange material and a transition metal oxide is known as a positive electrode active material for a lithium secondary battery, and hence has been studied widely. A lithium secondary battery containing this positive electrode active material exhibits a high voltage and a high capacity and, accordingly, has been put into practical use as a power source for various electronic devices. However, since the cation-exchange material in the positive electrode active material is loaded with lithium ions in a charging process, there is a problem in that a drastic change in volume occurs due to a change in lithium content. When such a drastic change in volume occurs, there is a problem in that the cycle durability and the safety of the lithium secondary battery are not satisfactorily ensured. Thus, for improving the cycle durability of the lithium secondary battery, Patent Document 1 proposes a composite electrode containing a lithium transition metal composite oxide having a diameter of 40 to 120 nm and a lithium ratio of $\geq 75\%$ and a lithium-containing transition metal composite oxide having a diameter of 6 to 100 nm and containing lithium. Florida Auto Traffic Report At Florida Traffic School we have assembled a comprehensive Florida auto traffic report for businesses in St. Petersburg, Florida. This comprehensive article features an objective look at the most important topics relating to car traffic in the area. Florida Traffic Report Recent Articles: The traffic data below was obtained by independent researchers using data provided by online sources. Traffic data can be muddied by a number of variables including camera accidents, road construction and other factors. All of which can make the traffic information incomplete and unreliable. If you are seeking a more detailed and authoritative source for traffic data in St. Petersburg, please click here to view the city's official traffic report. The average speed on Hillsborough Street from the causeway south to the Clearwater bridge was a sluggish 22mph. Based on government crash data from 2016, the speed limit on the western edge of St. Petersburg was a menacing 41mph. The recommended speed limit is 50mph. Streets with speed limits
