Q: Android: Can't set TextView's Text on TextChangeListener I need to monitor a text field for changes, and when a change is detected I need to change the value of the text field so the user can see it update. "A deer ran out in front of my car while I was leaving work. I drove off the road and the car flipped over. Luckily a couple of hunters found me and brought me to safety." "Wow, that's really something." "It is." "And I need some of my sweet talking going on." She grinned. "Well go on." He grinned back and said, "I'm still into you." She felt the warmth rush through her. "Oh, that's good to know, Sam. I'm so glad you're still into me." "You're the best." Sam got out his phone and John gave him two text messages from Nan. The first one read, "Let's go, Beth. Need to talk." The second one was, "I love you, Beth. Come home now." Sam looked at her and said, "I'll be back." She nodded and he climbed over the seat and headed out. Sam climbed over
