Ideal for privacy-conscious individuals, this Internet browsing and privacy-protection software serves as a virtual private network (VPN) to help users secure their online access. This program provides a permanent connection to the Internet, by forwarding the data via another website's server. It can operate on an unlimited number of computers, and it offers unlimited access to all sites, except for specific ones (such as banking sites). Best of all, the connection is completely anonymous and untraceable. A clear screen presents the preferred link, and links can be exported and added to the program's "Blacklist." Internet traffic encryption and privacy-protection The VPN engine protects your connection from hackers, spies and other intruders, leaving no trace of Internet activities. It encrypts all data transferred over the Internet and hides your identity by replacing IP addresses with unique ones. It does not save your activity on a hard drive and does not keep a log of its activities. Instead, the system creates separate sessions for each connection, and each session is time-limited. By default, when the session expires, the program automatically starts a new connection and begins the next browsing session. All the activities are logged in an encrypted file. The program supports all operating systems, operating systems, browsers and plugins and a variety of connections. It can also connect through Proxy, Tor, Socks4 and Socks5 protocols. It allows a wide range of settings for network parameters, including: * Access modes - Browser, Website, Text * Hide IP address, Change IP, Change IP by Search Engines * Allowing
