Building on the tech that powered 2014 FIFA 15, FIFA 22 introduces “HyperMotion.” Using data collected from actual players on the pitch playing a match, the game engine is able to model player movement and precisely animate an attacker's path to the ball, making FIFA feel more lively, more realistic and more exciting than ever. High-intensity pre-determined actions and created animations affect all phases of the match to seamlessly blend real-life player movement with the stats-based gameplay of the game.

This technology promises to strengthen the immersion of each and every FIFA title, while also improving the overall match experience. FIFA 22 uses the latest motion capture tech to make players' movements and actions even more realistic and lifelike. The new "HyperMotion" tech uses players' actual movements in high-intensity matches as well as data from the ground and in the air to mimic the player's movements in FIFA to create a higher level of realism and gameplay. New "Create Player" tools open up a world of player customization, including face, body and head sculpting options and character painting, and a new user interface makes creating custom players a snap. New Player Carts also allow players to customize their backpacks with a number of tints and materials, create and animate unique player styles, and equip key players with a selection of customized equipment, such as boots or kit. Additional customisation features include a revamped user interface with a streamlined setup, custom sets and user-friendly gameplay options. The new FIFA world player and team creator tools, in addition to a comprehensive tutorial designed to enhance all players' and managers' abilities, help create custom content for any world and save time and effort. Live Player Creator is the perfect tool for players and managers to create a team that showcases their favourite player, or bring their own skills to life using their own likeness. There are more than 12,000 pieces of headwear available in the customisation system, with more than 1,300 player poses and more than 8,500 virtual items. All of this is now supported by new tools in the User Interface that make it easier to create, view and tweak custom content. The FIFA Ultimate Team mass action tool, for instance, allows players to tweak all virtual items at once. There is also a quick & easy tool to preview custom player cards. FIFA World Football (FIFA World Cup 2014) is coming to PlayStation 4 and Xbox One

FIFA (Football, Footballer, Football Manager) is the best football game on PC. If you've not had the pleasure of experiencing the FIFA gaming phenomenon, we've created an outline of the experience to tell you everything you need to know. Development Team FIFA is developed and published by Electronic Arts (EA). The current FIFA development team includes over 400 talented specialists with a passion for FIFA and football who are based at EA's development offices in London and at EA SPORTS headquarters in Novato, California. Gameplay FIFA is a football game – it's not about life and death battle of the club or league. It's about the on-pitch action and predicting where the ball will be going. Headline dribbles, feints, lobs, crosses and long balls are all in play. Games are played with a set of skills, data and tactics which enable you to challenge and beat the opposition in a multitude of ways, all depending on the formation and team composition. There are over 600 player skills and 50 team tactics in FIFA, which means that even with the best players you will still have the chance to perform and excel on the pitch. FIFA lets you change formations in match and practice mode and you can even save time by activating the ability to “train” your players via a new system called Football Brainiacs. AI You can of course, take on CPU-controlled teams for practice mode and a practice mode featuring AI-controlled teams is being developed for future updates. AI also includes a new attack, defence and off-the-ball movement AI system. Visuals and Graphics FIFA has both an upgraded graphics engine and a revamped lighting system. The graphics engine has been upgraded from DirectX 9 to DirectX 11 and uses new lighting techniques including additional graphical effects including depth-of-field, ambient occlusion, environmental reflections, dynamic reflections and water surface effects. You can alter your view of the pitch with new camera options including a stand-over, third-person and first person view. World-class audio Sound effects are vital to the way we experience a sport game, and FIFA is no exception with its phenomenal music and crowd sounds. Social features FIFA has a fully integrated social network which lets you create your own profile, play against friends and

including both 4-2-3-1 and 4-3-3 formations. Work directly with your players to drive the ball up the field or lay off to help your defence. Gameflow Tactics switching is now possible in the 'Attack' mode, allowing players to switch between 3 roles in any formation as the match progresses.

Professional Referee 3 New Referee Abilities. Bite back on your opponent's decisions with the new Pass Reject system. Hit back to send your opponent offside, or call them back to the sideline for a free kick using the

See the full list of new and improved referee mechanics in the FIFA Mobile Special Edition. Dynamic Duels Create more realistic duels in the 'Battle' mode with the new Dynamic Duels system. Tactics setup and the weight of the ball influence the way the system plays out. Defend your corner, and control your opponent's possession to reduce fatigue.
