The "Windows Phone 8.1" version of Windows 10 would run on smartphones and tablets like the iPhone and Google's Android operating system, Microsoft's head of Windows Joe Belfiore said on Twitter on Monday. The Microsoft executive said the project was in its "very early stages" and that it was "to make Windows apps run well on phones and tablets." Windows Phone has been struggling to compete with Apple's iPhone and Google's Android. Windows Phone 8.1 was recently delayed from being released in October to November to give developers extra time to make apps. Microsoft's largest tablet, Surface, debuted earlier this year to little fanfare. Microsoft has also dabbled in small Android phones, something it's unlikely to do again. Follow Brett Molina on Twitter: @brettmolina23.Q: NSNotification multiple lines I have a strange problem. I want to react to an NSNotification (notification with an object). Now, I have an NSObject subclass that posts the notification. When my view controller receives the notification, I want to reload a table view. The problem is, that the notification doesn't automatically react when I enter a new line in the view. How can I fix this? Does anyone have an idea? This is how I post the notification: - (void)viewWillAppear:(BOOL)animated { [super viewWillAppear:animated]; dispatch_queue_t queue = dispatch_get_global_queue(DISPATCH_QUEUE_PRIORITY_DEFAULT, 0); dispatch_async(queue, ^{ NSDictionary *dict = [NSDictionary
