It's an Adobe product, so it's compatible with Photoshop and other Adobe products. Corel Draw: This comprehensive vector-based drawing and editing program is popular among many graphics designers. Editable Multimedia: Multimedia is often the lifeblood of a publication. Movement for Democratic Renewal The Movement for Democratic Renewal (French: Mouvement pour une Nouvelle Démocratie, or MND) was a political party in French West Africa which emerged in the 1940s. The MND was established in 1940 in Pondogo, French Congo (now Chad), by a coalition of different political parties. It was led by a Franco-British unionist, Armand Guibert-Dauagnac. The MND had strong appeal among educated people, both black and white, in French-occupied Africa. They were opposed to the authoritarian policies of the settlers and the Vichy regime and emphasized the importance of African nationalism. In 1942 the MND merged with various pro-Allied parties from French Equatorial Africa (AEF) and the French Union (UF) to form the Union Movement for the Independence of French West Africa (Union Indépendante de la France de l'Afrique Occidentale, UIFAO).
