* For information on tutorials for Lightroom, check out the tutorials at ``www.kuler.adobe.com``. * The free After Effects program can be used to edit images. It also allows you to create some simple animations, but it's not ideal for video editing. * Free online editing software is becoming popular to do simple editing jobs. You can find some good tutorials for programs such as Pixlr and Pixnio on YouTube. For example, at ``www.youtube.com/watch?v=ngjD95tf74I`` you can see the overview of the editing features of both of these programs. * * * # Smart Objects A `_smart object_` is a file with a layer mask. As shown in the earlier figure, a layer mask enables you to edit the objects underneath it without corrupting or changing the objects covered by the layer mask. Therefore, you can change the look of the underlayer without affecting the layer mask. You can use smart objects to create an entirely new, unique layer, or you can merge multiple layers into one layer. You can use a smart object to create a composite image from a series of photos. You can combine a photo of a band's star, or a single image with a modified background — a photograph of the band playing in a live setting with the audience in the background. The combination can produce a final image, as shown in the next figure, for a photo album. Smart objects can be used to create interesting composites from a number of images. You can create composites of many different parts of a single image: a photograph of a robot face, a cartoon face, a haircut, a computer, a camera, and a shirt. You can compose images from several different images. For example, you can combine several images from several different poses in a single composite image. As shown in Figure 4-7, the image reveals the subject matter in different ways by using different images and layers. Figure 4-7. This figure shows how you can use the face mode to place images of the same subject in different positions. In this photograph, a pinhole camera has been used to capture the subject. The same subject in a variety of poses looks different on the screen. You can combine multiple images into a composite using the usual techniques: * Put the images on separate layers *. You can use layer masks for each image to select only the part of

Learn Photoshop by doing Photoshop If you're looking to learn Photoshop, the best way to do it is by using it. Like many other programs, Photoshop has a powerful set of tools that allow you to perform a wide range of tasks. But, you can also perform the basic tasks with the few tools provided in Photoshop. Practice these simple tasks, and you will learn how to use Photoshop very quickly. 1. Change the text style in Photoshop By default, Photoshop shows text as a standard font. You can easily change the text style by opening the Type menu (Windows) or the Format menu (Mac). For instance, you can change the font and size using the Arial bold font. To check what kind of font you have selected, click the F5 key. 2. Create a large photo mosaic With the Mosaic tool (Windows) or the Live-Mosaic tool (Mac), you can create a large photo collage easily. Click the Create Live Mosaic button and set the mosaic size. Keep in mind that the size is not available in the Mosaic dialog box until you click on Create. You can create a mosaic with a different size when you select the images and use the Mosaic dialog box. To learn how to change the size of a mosaic, see this guide. 3. Create graphics effect with Layers and Blend Modes You can use Photoshop Layers to create custom graphics effects. It offers a wide variety of blends modes to create different effects. You can also use any tool to create visual effects. In these cases, you can use software that is not part of Photoshop. Some popular tools are GIMP, Krita and Pixelmator. 4. Create a gradient with filters You can use the Gradient tool to create a gradient that includes any colors. You can blend the colors or create an interesting gradient, as shown in the images. You can use brushes, patterns and gradients in filters. You can also use the Gradient tool to work with strokes. For example, you can create a smoky gradient using the Gradient tool. 5. Create an image of a rainbow To create an image of a rainbow, go to Filter > Lens Correction > Distortion Correction. A dialog box appears to guide you through creating an image of a rainbow. Click on the OK button to use the image in Photoshop. 6 05a79cecff

An early morning methamphetamine traffic stop in a rural community near the U.S.-Canadian border led to several arrests and a heated exchange between the officer and a father of three. The investigation began Tuesday morning when a Border Patrol agent made contact with a vehicle driving into the United States from Canada at the Twin Bridges border crossing in Washington County. The vehicle's 17-year-old driver was not the owner of the vehicle, as the vehicle was reported stolen, the agent said. The driver pulled into the driveway of a U.S. vehicle that was already waiting in the driveway. The agent said the 17-year-old driver was driving the vehicle, but he was not its registered owner and he did not have a valid driver's license. After a few minutes, a white, four-door Kia SUV pulled up and a man inside the vehicle was yelling at the agent, advising him that the only U.S. citizen in the car was the male driver, not the female passengers. The man accused the Border Patrol agent of stealing his car, the agent said. The driver of the SUV refused to allow the Border Patrol agent to search the vehicle. After arguing for a few more minutes, the agent told the driver to turn the vehicle around and go back to the border crossing, the agent said. According to the officer, the SUV then pulled into the driveway of a home on Margaret Road, about 500 feet from the border crossing, and the man inside the vehicle exited the vehicle and continued yelling and screaming at the agent. "He yelled at me about the dog," the agent said. The owner of the residence, identified only as a female, became involved and began shouting at the male driver. The woman also accused the driver of stealing her vehicle, and told the driver, "You need to leave. We have a child here," the agent said. The Kia driver continued to walk away from the residence and into the adjacent woods when the SUV pulled up with a dog in the back and headlights on, the agent said. The Border Patrol agent reported that the dog began barking and lunging at the Kia SUV. Several minutes later, the Border Patrol agent said, the male driver of the vehicle came walking out of the woods toward the agent holding what appeared to be a gun. The agent said the vehicle's license plates had been removed.

Attitude and knowledge of trainee nurse anesthetists towards potential nursing students at the University of Cape Town. The number of Nurse Anesthetists (NAs) practising in South Africa is reported to be decreasing, and the National Department of Health has, therefore, emphasised the importance of recruiting NAs, and establishing training programmes. The University of Cape Town School of Health Sciences currently offers a pre-registration course in Anaesthesia for students interested in pursuing a career in the field. This research explores the attitudes of trainee NAs towards potential nursing students. It also seeks to document their attitudes to aspects of the course and nursing as a career. All 14 trainee NAs taking the course in July 1995 were asked to complete questionnaires. Seventy percent of respondents correctly answered that the course was geared towards enhancing the knowledge and competence of Nurse Anesthetists, with the remainder stating incorrectly that it was designed to be part of a specialisation programme for nurses. Almost all NAs believed that nursing was a worthwhile career, although some were undecided as to which of the two paths they would take.

Eighty-seven percent of the NAs had a positive view of the choice of specialty, and almost all respondents favoured experience over academic studies as the most important area of course content. Back to Nature The 'Back to Nature' movement is a philosophy that challenges modern times and the 'me first' mindset we've adopted since the industrial revolution. Some might say that it is simply called back to nature. Our Earth has been over populated and as a result we see the rise of many different plants and animals that could no longer live in such an overcrowded space. People have been moving away from cities in search of more tranquil and free living spaces. I've always been drawn to the idea of connecting to the natural world and getting back to it. This impulse is reflected in the various products I create for men and women. Beyond bringing down the noise of modern times and getting back to nature is the idea of creating an embrace in style. It means living in what one needs to survive. This can manifest in clothing, food, and shelter. I believe that the times we live in are beyond anything we can imagine. At the same time, we need to treat these times with the same sense of appreciation that we have for natural elements of the world. By this I mean that we must be mindful of the world around us while we travel to live in the
