'Getting our kids back was a group effort': Celebrating moms 5 years after kidnapping ordeal The five moms who were held hostage for three days in a Pennsylvania school received "a gift" last week when their children returned home from being bullied at school, according to one of the women. "There's a lot of love there now," said Sharlonda Thompson, who was reunited with her 8-year-old son for the first time in four days Wednesday. The moms were reunited with their children at the start of the school year, but their emotional reunion was scheduled separately because of scheduling conflicts. "I feel like I have a beautiful gift to give them," Thompson said, speaking to NBC Philadelphia on Friday about the moms who kidnapped her and her children. Thompson's 18-year-old daughter was abducted at gunpoint from their home in December 2006. "We have never gotten our children back," she said. "Getting our kids back was a group effort." "It was done for a good reason," Thompson said. "To us, it was worth it." Hundreds of people attended a candlelight vigil for the moms Thursday night at the school, according to NBC affiliate WPVI. "I can't help but feel that there was a purpose for our reunion," said Denise McCarty, who was reunited with her sons a year ago when they

Q: How to determine all the types of elements in a Java Set? In Java, I have the Set and it returns the all elements of E. How to determine what is the type of E? Is there a method like is of E? A: For "is an" and "is a" type relationship: Set s = ... Set > r = s.stream().map(Object::getClass).collect(toSet()); for (Class c : r) { System.out.println(c.getName() + " is a " + c); } A: If E happens to be a concrete class, then it's easy. Type E is E.getClass(): Set s = ...; Set > classes = s.stream().map(e -> e.getClass()).collect(toSet()); for (Class clazz : classes) { System.out.println(clazz.getName() + " is a " + clazz); } But you can also do this more 1cdb36666d
