The technology allows for a heightened level of responsiveness and fine detail, as well as dynamic on-screen animations and player controls. The technology in FIFA 19 got some lip service, which in itself was quite a statement, but this time around, it is the centerpiece of the whole experience. 7. New Player Traits A lot of the new player traits in FIFA 19 were cool, but it came without any explanation. 8. New Options for Maneuvering Huge new sections of options that allow you to control exactly how in the world you want to control your players. 9. New set pieces The new set pieces are an absolute game-changer for this category. 10. Dynamic camera This is a game-changer for me. It is finally a good time to point out that the camera issues I had with FIFA 19 are dead and buried. 11. New FA semis and the Champions League final I am all in favor of more detail in the FA Cup. It is very badly in need of love. But that's not even mentioning the Champions League final. The Champions League final is something that people have been clamoring for for decades. 12. New Friendlies I am by no means the first to point out that the old friendlies just weren't working, but that's what the DLC was for. 13. New International tournaments I'm pretty sure that FIFA 19 had a small amount of representation for FIFA 2022. FIFA 22 goes all in. 14. New World Cups Back-to-back World Cups are already a giant leap over the tournament that FIFA 19 played. FIFA 22 is the first time I believe that there is a chance of World Cup knockout matches in the Premier League. 15. Career Mode This is the big one for me. FIFA 19 was fantastic, but it lacked the long-term ability to create a true career. 16. New challenge games Challenge games are incredibly hard in FIFA 19, but they are generally run by the AI. In FIFA 22, players actually have to control their team. 17. New World Cups FIFA 22 is the first time that the World Cup will be back to back. 18. New kits One of the things I missed most about the Football Manager series is being able
