If it's only a few hours later, then your cat or a new cat has returned to your barn or house. If the intruder has returned while you are away, then the thief has searched for food and is probably prowling around looking for food, water and probably sleeps. A thief may be wandering around your barn or house hoping to find an unlocked door and a soft warm bed in which to sleep. If you find an intruder is prowling around your barn or house, then it is best to call your animal control service for assistance. If it's your cat or a new cat (inside a different barn or house), then it will probably be awake and sniffing around the barn or house after being on the road for an hour or two. If your barn or house is locked up and the cat or cat is inside the barn or house
