The present invention relates to a method and apparatus for recording magnetically on a recording medium comprising a plurality of tracks, the information being recorded in a direction perpendicular to the tracks. In some present-day magnetic recording devices, such as that described in British Patent Application No. 2,073,701 to H.J. van Benschoten et al, information is recorded in a direction perpendicular to the tracks, on a recording medium having a plurality of tracks. FIG. 1 is a partial perspective view of a conventional, magnetic recording device which illustrates the basic concept of this type of recording system. The device illustrated in FIG. 1 comprises a so-called "Winchester" cassette in which a magnetic tape 1 is disposed. The tape 1 is wound over a supply reel 2 and a take-up reel 3. A supply of magnetic tape 1 is withdrawn from the supply reel 2 by means of a supply pinch roller 4 and supplied to a capstan 5. Capstan 5 rotates at a high rate of speed, for example, 1500 rpm. The rotation of the capstan 5 causes a magnetic tape 1 to be moved along a predetermined path and to be taken up by the take-up reel 3. This magnetic recording device further comprises a heads 6, 7 and 8 which are positioned on the tape 1 in the proximity of capstan 5. The heads 6, 7, 8 write and read information on the magnetic tape 1. The heads 6, 7, 8 comprise in their respective orifice portions magnetoresistive head elements mounted on a common head base 9. The head elements are arranged in pairs such that the tracks are positioned at an angle of 90.degree. to each other. In FIG. 2, each head element 11, 12 comprises four track-forming portions 13, 14, 15 and 16, which are arranged at an angle of 45.degree. to each other, and thus form respective tracks of the magnetic tape 1. The track-forming portions 13, 14, 15, 16 respectively comprise a main track-forming portion 13, 14, 15, 16 at a position on the magnetic tape 1 located on a side of the respective head element 11, 12 that is remote from the capstan 5. The head element 11, 12 further comprises a pair of pre-pick-up portions 17 and 18 at a position remote from the capstan 5 which extend in a direction parallel to the tracks. Each pre-pick-up portion 17, 18 extends in a direction parallel to the
