Primary care provided for resident welfare and comfort. Evaluation of primary care offered to nursing home residents includes measuring the resident's physical, mental, and psychosocial well-being. A simple, ten-minute health history can be used to elicit information about the resident's health. A nurse can also use an evaluation sheet for formulating care plans for subacute admission if an acute change in health is suspected. Although assessment may be limited to physical examination and one-to-one observation, the nurse will need to employ prompt identification of abnormal signs and symptoms in order to institute appropriate intervention. When needed, the nurse will refer residents to a physician or other health professional. The review of data also allows opportunities for the nurse to develop educational objectives to improve care.Ellie Hall was at a'soccer party' and witnessed everything that was to come. The seventh grader says she was hanging out with friends at a birthday party last month at the Calvert County High School soccer field. Someone started filming the game and recording the cheers. That's when Hall says she saw the most amazing thing. She describes it as a white truck speeding through the field in the opposite direction. "The truck was flying and making an u-turn and going down the soccer field and making a U-turn," Hall told 10 News reporter Osha Gray Davidson. Ellie says she doesn't know how it got away with it, but the driver was completely unfazed. "I thought it was a stunt car so I'm just like 'oh they wanna drive around the field,'" she said. "But it didn't even stop." The driver had to put on a pair of goggles to focus on the game, but the experience of chasing a black truck through the field, and the fact that it was almost six years ago, have left Hall with some lingering questions. "I can't get it out of my mind because I'm like, 'How could you do that?'" she said. "How is it that you can just come there and do that and get away with it?" Williams says they're not sure if this will be the last time he'll ride in the back of the truck, but he insists he had no intention of a stunt.1.
