While Photoshop is one of the most popular and powerful photo editing software, it is not the only one. A plethora of alternatives are available to both photographers and graphic designers. You can find several alternatives for Photoshop to help you save some time in your editing process. Here is our list of the Best Free Alternatives to Adobe Photoshop. Honorable Mention: Fireworks This digital design tool is a bit dated in comparison to Photoshop but is still quite popular and is my personal favorite on this list. If you are looking for something similar to Photoshop but without all the bells and whistles, Fireworks is perfect. Adobe XD Sometimes, Adobe XD gets lost in the product name. Basically, it is a digital design tool. It is very similar to Fireworks but is much easier to use. Check out our guide on how to use Adobe XD for more information. Pixlr If you just need a photo editor or a graphic designer, Pixlr is perfect. It is more limited than Photoshop but you can use it for simple image editing and graphic design. You can also upload images to a variety of social networks and email. Shot Not as powerful as Photoshop but great for personal work. Shot is great for users who want a simple, straightforward app for editing photos. They even have a web-based version. GIMP A decent free photo editing tool. GIMP is good if you are looking for something more powerful and have a budget. Some of its features are not accessible in the Free version but it's more than enough for some very basic editing. GimpShop If you need to edit and print your images, then GimpShop is a good option. Also, if you are looking for a budget-friendly tool, GimpShop is available for free. Q: How to use substring to extract items that meet certain criteria? I have a string: string = "Hello, how are you? I am fine." I want to remove everything up to and including the ". i.e: Hello, how are you? I am fine." The result should be: Hello, how are you? I am fine. I have tried the following, but it doesn't work: (string.IndexOf(".")-(string.LastIndexOf("."))) Any ideas on how to do this? A: That is a string extraction operation, but it will look a little more like this: string.Substring(0, string.IndexOf(".") + 1) For example: using System.Linq; using System; public class Program { public static void Main() { var s = "Hello, how are you? I am fine."; var t = s.Substring(0, s.IndexOf(".")); Console.WriteLine(t); } } Q: Remove section from main docs folder after creating a new file I have a very large documents folder in Sublime Text 3. At the end of the document, I have a section that lists every file in the folder: [{ "name": "document.css", "type": "text/css", "size": 234, "compression": "gzip" }] What I need to do is remove the section, because it is cluttering the page. Is there a way to just delete the section? Here is a picture of the function I'm using: A: I would do something like this: Create a new file extension, for example.txt Create a function (in this example, global) that will remove the item function remove_from_docs(filename) { return [{ "name

'IRISH PEOPLE WANT TO VOTE YES' The Ipsos Mori poll shows the percentage of those who would vote to repeal the ban is increasing. The growing support for the repeal came as Taoiseach Leo Varadkar said this week he is concerned about the impact on the economy. Of those questioned, 10 per cent said they were undecided and 34 per cent said they would vote to repeal the ban while 30 per cent said they would vote against repeal. The poll also shows that if that referendum goes ahead next year, 69 per cent would vote to repeal the ban while 27 per cent would vote to keep the ban. Only 3 per cent said they would vote for a constitutional amendment to ban abortion while 1 per cent said they were undecided. Just over half of voters think it should be removed from the constitution while a further 17 per cent think it should be removed but there should be other restrictions on the availability of abortion. 13 per cent are undecided on this question. Trouble has hit the Android community once again, with a lot of people reporting that their Google Play Services are not working properly. It seems the issue is mainly prevalent on Pixel devices running a build from very recent. You can see the exact date of this build here. For those of you who have not received a message from your Google account, here are some ways to verify if you are affected by the issue. Via Email If you have an email address linked to your account, you can check if you have received any messages from Google Play Services team. At the moment there is no official statement about the status of the issue, but if you are affected by it you should check your inbox and the spam folder. Via Account Settings Before checking your account you need to confirm that it is set to "I use this account for Google". Here is how your account screen should look if it is set to this. After this you can check and see if you have any updates or uploads from Google Play Services. If you do have, you can then proceed to the next step. Via Play Store Update Google Play Services from the Google Play Store. After you choose your language and check it's all correct, you should be able to push it. How to download the latest update of Google Play Services How to fix the problem This is a short list of
