Implementing an User Interaction When user clicks on the submit button i want the below code to execute but it doesn't happen. Instead the whole page gets refreshed. $.post("myApp/action/add", { value: value }); This is the submit button: A: Because you are submitting the form the will be automatically sent with the submitted data, the logic would be like this:
$("#submit-button").click(function(event) { event.preventDefault(); $.post("myApp/action/add", { value: value }); }); You should also make sure that you have the proper JS enabled. Your very first line of JS should be: And you should also note that the type of button is submit. Not onclick. This should stop the default action (which will be a redirect) of the form. That is in case you have a form on your page that is not the page you are on right now
