Viral marketing In 2006, EA promoted FIFA Football via the medium of the Internet, using the Nintendo Wii console's controller. It was launched by a segment of the player base that is Nintendo-savvy and/or had "created" a "PSP_WW" folder on their Wii, and could then access EA's website and download the game. The characters in the game were all over the place, with players who had integrated the game in this way getting the best player models.

Go for the Grassy Knoll Seasons: Experience authentic match-day intensity and ball control on Grass pitches. The improved 3D animations, breathing grass and player movements will make the game come to life in a new way. Grass pitch players will have the ability to perform a new first-touch control move, which will allow them to control the ball on the slippery surface. FIFA Ultimate Team will also see the introduction of grass to create a more dynamic experience. Ball Physics: Each pitch is made up of thousands of individual tiles, arranged in such a way that the little granular impact felt when the ball hits the grass is just as great as the bigger, livelier bounces you'd expect on normal pitches. This means that the ball can be a lot more unpredictable in certain areas, which creates more variety in gameplay for players. Standard Pitches: Experience the full-on intensity bc9d6d6daa
