I'm trying to get the row number of a cell, and then call it from the cell that called it. For example, I have 3 rows in a sheet, and each cell contain a short string: Then, I have a macro in the row where I'm inserting content. In that macro, I need to call the row number (let's say row 4). How do I do it? I'm guessing this is not a tricky thing to do, but this has been driving me crazy for a while now. The things I've tried: 1) Create an extra row (based on the row that is "calling" it) and put the numbers in there, then use it to call the row number. But doesn't work because when you create the new row, you're not actually updating the macro in the sheet, and that means that you're not able to use it to call the number (it's pointing at the new row), and the macro is not affected by it. 2) Make a global variable of the last row number, and use it to call the new row number. It works, but I'm not sure it's the way to go. 3) Create a onOpen function (based on the on open function 595f342e71
