Sahih Al Bukhari April 4, 2012 -- CLAYTON WILLIAM CAMPBELL Chapter 20 - Chemistry of the eyes and the mind - Part 2 18. Ask them as to what is the essence of life, and they will say, it is to see, to hear, to know and to feel. They do not understand that life is also to be known and that without knowing it is not life, and that without knowing it it is not known. This is the first principle of philosophy, which you must learn at least once. There is a vast difference between seeing something, knowing it, and feeling it. The Muslims say they are promised paradise for seven things. They are called: 1) the pure people, 2) the patient, 3) the truthful, 4) the suffering and distressed, 5) the worshippers, 6) the seekers of Allah and 7) the helpers of Allah. If you want to have health, then you must be patient. That is why patience is the most important virtue. Patients do not have hallucinations and they are not insane. The patient knows that he is patient. The belief and assurance of the patient that he is patient gives him health and strength. Health is a combination of art and medicine. The art of medicine is the knowledge of the natural laws of creation and the ways of its correction and the means of its prevention. If we prevent the diseases they will not appear. Prevention is medicine. Well is what you consider healthy or unhealthy. Disease is the result of his health, which you make bad or bad or good or very bad. Whatever conditions you put on your life, you will get. From the view of the eye is life. From the view of the heart is happiness. If you see your brother or sisters with an atmosphere of joy, how great is that! The heart is a mirror and eyes are a light. When the heart is covered with darkness, it does not see. Happiness is a mirror and eyes are a light. The worst way of knowing man is the way of the eye. The human beings are known through the eyes. Three fundamental principles to understand the world: one is the theory of God, second one is the theory of the world, the third is the theory of man. The world is said to be the play of creation. The theory of the world is God's art. The theory of man is
