Serial Key.'We could have easily messed this up': Keeping up the White House's tradition of entertaining social media attention, the Obama family hosted a Twitter-friendly meal just in time for the holidays. The Obamas joined President Trump and first lady Melania Trump for their third holiday dinner together, a move aimed at building off the two past occasions. "We decided that the way to honor and celebrate the amazing spirit of the American people is by joining our families on the South Lawn and eating a terrific meal together," the president said in a statement. "The country has been very well represented by all of the leaders gathered today. It is a great honor to be with them during this important moment in the life of our nation." As tradition demands, the first family made it a
