Players are able to control and adjust their game with the goal of dictating key points of the game from the first ball to the last. Rites of passage such as free-kicks, penalties and corners are rendered as more unique and authentic. Additionally, players will have the ability to control their movement and execute complex and fluid on-ball actions to make the most of their skill and creativity. All of this is further enhanced through a revamped AI system which uses an intelligent prediction-and-control approach to build a cognitive map of the player's movements and predict their next key actions. The real-life player motions are recorded using cameras that track the position and movements of 22 unique players: Six defenders, eight midfielders and eight forwards. EA Sports is using the same 22 players that will be used to play the 2019 Women's World Cup in Canada, as well as the Brazil and Germany squads for the FIFA 21 World Cup. The motion capture suits capture movement in every key part of the player's body, including arms, legs, head, and even outside and inside the player's footwear. The movement data is then analyzed to recreate each player's attributes, such as strength, speed, agility, and precision. The goal for the FIFA community is to deliver a match-day experience that captures the drama and intensity of the real-life game. The game will feature new animations and styles of play, while recognizing the specific attributes of 22 top players. FIFA 22 introduces "HyperMotion Technology," which uses motion capture data collected from players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The game will use the same 22 players that will be used to play the 2019 Women's World Cup in Canada, as well as the Brazil and Germany squads for the FIFA 21 World Cup. ### Features Key:

- Completely New 3D Goal Model - Now, goals move in realistic ways. Whether you kick the ball or the player slides it past you, goalkeepers dive with their hands to block the ball and the goalkeeper can block on the run.
- Introducing "Hyper Motion" Technology - FIFA 22 utilises real-life footwork data captured from real-life players playing a high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data captured from the movement of players, tackles, aerial duels, and on-ball actions is used to power the on-screen football experience. Also introduced are the Free Kicks & Slide-Tackles, the latter of which allow players to slide past the last defender to score.

- Introducing FIFA Authentic Skills, where players can show off their own style and play the game as they want to.
- Introducing defender weighting, where defenders will adapt to weight fluctuations. This has the unique effect of increasing the ball awareness of defenders.
- New Defensive AI - Defenders change their line to cover the attackers, swerve and fall away to press the ball carrier, and use anticipation to intercept passes.
- Real Topography - Each pitch has been redesigned with brand new grass patterns and the pitch lines have been moved in relation to the goals to improve the flow of play.
- Intelligent ball physics - Over 30 years of football knowledge is distilled into a ball that reacts to the players, and the pitch it is playing on. The ball will adapt to the surface to bring fun new spins, evasive flicks and tricks. The ball will react to the player, weight it right and left, and will turn in the right balance of energy and unpredictability.
- New Themes and Ultras - In FIFA 19, user-generated content was released, allowing football fans to share their own user-generated content such as scarves, personalised boot designs, and club-specific stadia. This year, you can now customise your favourite football clubs with new themes and team uniforms.
- New Theme Editor - Now you can create your own custom stadia, kits and manager outfits and costumes with your very own football club. New templates and style options have been added to make it super easy to create your own unique football club.

the sections of the rails i18n file not shown in the /config/locales/ directory? I was following the i18n guide for rails 3 and created a new application. In the application.rb I did the following: `config.i18n.load_path += Dir[File.join(Rails.root, "locales", "*.rb,yml")]` `config.i18n.default_locale = :en` and then in the /config/locales/ dir there is a en.yml file and a en.yml.en.yml file. They both do have exactly the same content (key-value pairs). But when I open the page in my browser and inspect the rendered page, then I only see the en.yml file in the /config/locales/ directory. That is, no key-value pairs are rendered. Why is that? I am running ruby 1.9.3-p376 (2014-11-13 revision 48405) [x86_64-darwin12.4.0] and rails 3.2.13. Update I've done a bit of experimenting: If I add english.yml, then the en.yml file gets overwritten by it. I thought that was by design. If I add a file with key-value pairs in the same directory as the en.yml file, then they both get shown. It seems that the only files in the /config/loc
