In recent years, there has been a tendency that the number of deaths due to traffic accidents increases. Hence, the market of vehicle materials for vehicles, such as automobiles, motorcycles, railway vehicles, or aircraft, which can be used for a long period without deterioration due to external environment, is expected to increase. As such a material, there is demanded a large elongation material which is excellent in plastic performance, tensile properties and durability, while maintaining high tensile properties which a steel material is presently used, and a cold-rolled sheet at a high yield ratio which is excellent in wear resistance and can be favorably recycled. As is well known, a hot-rolled steel sheet having a high tensile strength and a high yield ratio can easily be produced, and thus has been used for vehicle bodies. However, from the standpoint of fuel savings or environmental conservation, it is now required to reduce the weight of the vehicle body. For this purpose, there are problems in that strength is lowered, and appearance is deteriorated due to a decline in tensile strength or elongation. To solve these problems, there has been proposed a hot-rolled steel sheet having higher strength and elongation. As such a hot-rolled steel sheet having higher strength and elongation, for example, Patent Document 1 proposes a high tensile strength steel sheet having a steel structure containing, in mass %, C: 0.05 to 0.25%, Si: 0.05 to 1.0%, Mn: 0.05 to 1.0%, P: 0.005% or less, S: 0.005 to 0.03%, Al: 0.005 to 0.10%, N: 0.005 to 0.01%, and Nb: 0.01 to 0.5%, and the balance being Fe and inevitable impurities. In addition, Patent Document 1 discloses that the hot-rolled steel sheet is characterized in that the thickness of
