There are many factors that contribute to your body's electrolyte levels, including diet, stress, and medications. Diagnosing dehydration and electrolyte imbalance: In medical emergencies, such as those involving pain, shortness of breath, fever, vomiting, or diarrhea, determining if your electrolyte levels are low can be life-saving. Blood or urine tests can be done to assess electrolyte levels. The amount of water you have in your body can also be determined by measuring your weight and size. Cerebral venous sinus thrombosis in an infant with congenital hypercoagulopathy. Cerebral venous sinus thrombosis (CVST) is a life-threatening condition. There is an increased prevalence of hypercoagulable states in children. We report a case of a 9-month-old infant with congenital hypercoagulopathy who presented with new-onset seizures and a focal lesion detected on magnetic resonance imaging (MRI). She was treated with steroids and discharged with oral anticoagulation. She subsequently presented with altered mental status. Repeat MRI showed marked interval change to a large thrombus in the straight sinus causing venous infarction. Pathologic analysis revealed marked fibrin deposition. We hypothesize that her hypercoagulable state triggered an underlying cerebral venous thrombus that led to venous infarction. A coagulopathy resulting in thrombus formation is a rare cause of CVST.The presentation of both primary and metastatic SCC of the skin should be included in the differential diagnosis of cutaneous tumors with a metastatic propensity. The skin is the most common site of metastasis for malignancies originating from deeper sites of the body. This is due to the superficial nature of the skin and to the rich vascular supply. We report two cases of cutaneous metastases from squamous cell carcinoma, one in the trachea and the other in the orbita.Welcome to my Stitch Together Stitch is a series of simple stitches that can be combined to make shapes. This is one of my favorite stitch patterns because I made it in a weekend with my two-year old son. With my son, I am trying to teach him new things that he can pass onto his children. Supplies Instructions Note: This only works with white yarn, so that is what I used for both examples.  1. With white yarn, hold the pom pom seed stitch and insert a needle through the bottom loop, then twist the yarn like you would a normal knotted stitch and pull through to create a loop. 2. Insert a second needle through the bottom loop and bring it to the bottom loop of the first stitch. 3. Bring the next needle up
