But the question of what happens in the coming days and months of a ban is in some ways just as interesting. In Ronaldo's case, it will be interesting to see if he will fight to keep playing and how his team-mates will respond if he does. More than that, it will be interesting to see how the wider footballing world will react. Ronaldo's decision to admit to an FA Cup-related offence will largely be seen in some quarters as justified, given he has already served his ban in Real Madrid's Champions League campaign. It is true that the all-conquering Blancos have not been helped by the use of a substitute in the Carling Cup final, but he has had two years to prepare for those games and there is no punishment for the champions taking an option and not using it. And even if Ronaldo did have a ban hanging over his head before his involvement in Saturday's match (when he was substituted at

Searching for the ideal work/life balance A Night of 'Silent Films' at the Cinema

Last week I was at the cinema. I've never been to a traditional cinema, but instead went to a language cinema where for £12 you got to watch a silent film in a foreign language. It's a bit like visiting a museum and listening to the sound of gongs, bells and drums to accompany the presentation. Apparently back in the 1920s there were several silent movies produced featuring film stars who also happened to be musical masters. All of which are now lost forever, even though several of them were critical and commercial successes. The most famous among these are the American films The Artist and The Jazz Singer starring Al Jolson, and the German film The Miracle by Conrad Veidt. At the cinema I went to see The Artist, which was directed by Michel

Hazanavicius, who gained some notoriety in 2000 with the films OSS 117: Cairo, Nestor Burma: Eternal Honor and OSS 117: Lost in Rio. Hazanavicius's original drama, shot in black and white, was made in 1911, and starred Willy Fritsch as a cowardly, over-decorated artist who was intimidated by the woman he fell in love with. The plot involves him having a nervous breakdown and being taken under the wing of a powerful man who uses him as an artist to paint his new surroundings. The film is actually quite a lot of fun. Willy Fritsch in The Artist Hazanavicius's direction is a little hit and miss in my opinion. Some of his sequences are very good. For example the film includes a huge amount of adornment. Using huge dollops of paint to create the artificial look of soft focus and focus. It  d0c515b9f4

How to install updated version (MacOSX: Universal Binary) You have to download the "Native Instruments Rammfire v2.0.0" installer, and then re-install it on your system. Once the update is installed, you need to select the old version as an option during the next patching process. Charles Barclay

Charles Barclay (1819 – 3 January 1878) was a British Conservative Party politician. He sat in the House of Commons from 1865 to 1874. Barclay was the younger son of Rev. Thomas Barclay of Felton, Cumberland and his wife Catherine Stevenson. He was educated privately and at the University of Glasgow, where he graduated B.A. in 1839, and M.A. in 1842. At the 1865 general election, Barclay was elected MP for Westmorland. He held the seat until he resigned in 1874 by the procedural device of "taking the benefit of a patent". He died at the age of 57. I want to make a link to a PDF on my website, so that when a user clicks it, the user gets redirected to the link, not the pdf. (Users don't have Adobe reader installed on their browsers, they just click on the links) Can I link to a pdf directly, or do I have to use a downloadable file? If I don't use a downloadable file, will the browser warn the user or something? A: Why not make an tag with a target="_blank" attribute? My pdf just don't put the pdf itself in the tag, obviously. If the pdf is hosted externally, check out the target="_blank" attribute, to make sure the user will be navigated to that pdf in their browser. A: In HTML, there is no other way to link directly to a file. Unless you want to make

Let Y be the subspace of X generated by the closure of the points of $X \setminus Y$. Show that Y is also a Hausdorff space with respect to the subspace topology from Y . So,

Y is a subspace of X , and its topology is $\mathcal{T}_Y = \mathcal{T}_X \cap \mathcal{T}_Y$ with \mathcal{T}_Y being the topology on Y induced by the subspace topology of X . The definitions that I have are: X is a Hausdorff space if for any $x, y \in X$ such that $x \neq y$, there are open sets U and V such that $x \in U$, $y \in V$ and U is a subset of V , and vice-versa. And Y is Hausdorff if for all $a, b \in Y$, $Y \setminus \{a, b\}$ is open in Y . Let $a, b \in Y$ such that $a \neq b$. There exist open sets U and V such that $a \in U$, $b \in V$, U is a subset of V and vice-versa. In addition, we know that Y is Hausdorff, so U and V are open in Y . Let
