XOR Encrypt is based on the XOR encryption algorithm. Input file is split into lines, characters and each of these elements is encrypted separately with XOR encryption. The XOR operator is applied to each character of the file. The file is then split into blocks, which are encrypted separately. The size of the blocks can be up to 512 KB (block size) The encryption key (password) is also inserted in the file, starting from the current line. Decrypted file is compared with the original file to verify the password and decrypt the file (File encryption is a good option to secure your
