Key elements of the gameplay featured in FIFA 22 include Dynamic Trajectory, which increases ball speed and accuracy, and more intelligent ball control on the pitch, with a more skilled player being able to pick out a pass more easily. There's also a new dimension to FIFA's Focus Movement system, which makes it easier for players to shoot from awkward angles and more intuitively transitions between movement and shooting. FIFA also improves its sprinting and dribbling with the introduction of Sprint-Dribbling, which allows players to predict movements and accelerate into a pass, and Sprint-Short Pass, which allows for easier passing while on the move. FIFA 22 will be released on September 27 across PS4, Xbox One and PC. Read more about FIFA 22 here (Eurogamer) and here (Kotaku). This article may contain links to online retail stores. The legislation is one of several bills being considered in the Congress aimed at imposing additional pressure on North Korea. Two Democratic senators who cosponsored the Menendez bill, Ed Markey and Cory Booker, said that it should become law as soon as possible. They said the legislation would be a strong warning to Pyongyang that it would face tougher economic sanctions. "By passing the Menendez/Conyers sanctions, we would be sending a strong signal to Pyongyang that we are serious about preventing further nuclear development," Markey and Booker said in a joint statement. Both senators, and two Republicans on the committee that wrote the bill, said that the legislation could head for a vote in the U.S. Senate as soon as next week. The proposed sanctions would add North Korea to the U.S. government's Specially Designated
