Q: Node.js Promises - How to Handle Retained Reference? I am trying to understand the retain functionality of promises. The documentation is a little confusing to me. I have a list of items, each of which have an id: var items = [1, 2, 3, 4]; I want to retrieve the list, find the index for each item, and then retrieve the index when the list is a subset: // there could be anywhere from 0 to N elements in the list var mylist = []; Promise.resolve(items.slice(0, 10)).then(function() { // items slice returns an array of length 10 // retained references for the items in the list var indices = items.map(function(item) { return mylist.indexOf(item); }); // what happens if the list is a subset of the original items? // how do I remove the items from the mylist array? mylist.push(...indices); return Promise.resolve(indices.slice(0, 10)); }).then(function() { return Promise.resolve(mylist); }); Any help would be appreciated.
