The door on the left with the engine is open."Giving District 53's DePaul High School students the most realistic, helpful graphic design training available today, all at a reasonable price," says OpenCalais founder and CEO, Peter Conlon. "All this with OpenCalais is so easy, you'll probably forget you're learning graphic design. It's that good." OpenCalais is an online service that teaches people to design. A company of 40 employees, it was founded in 2007 and has more than 2,000,000 registered users to date. Peter Conlon says, "With OpenCalais, you're learning real graphic design--content and aesthetic, not just cookie cutter templates. We use real-world design principles--a hands-on approach to teaching." "We want to make it easy to learn," says Peter Conlon. "Where else can you learn graphic design for free using today's technology at the pace of your learning?" What is OpenCalais? OpenCalais is an online, interactive, web based graphic design training course. Unlike other online classes, it uses a combination of video, text, simulations and hands-on exercises to teach graphic design. It is a learning experience designed to bring you an in-depth understanding of graphic design principles, as well as practical skills. Anyone can use OpenCalais. The graphic design courses are designed to be accessible for beginners, but are also suitable for those who already have graphic design experience. Creating a Beautiful Identity for Your Business When you teach others graphic design skills, you're training them to design for their future. In every sense of the word, graphic design is creating a new identity for someone's business or company. It can also be used to create a new look for any marketing campaign, promotional material or even web site
